
Qualifications profile

As a pair consisting of a current graduand and recent graduate, we have a vast amount of experience involving quantitative and qualitative research. These research endeavours have allowed us to develop and refine a valuable set of transferable skills. Long-term goals include becoming an account and a research psychologist.

Key strengths

Cooperation and independence: Able to effectively work as individuals and to take the initiative when the need arises. Also confident working as part of a team: sharing responsibilities, open to constructive criticism, and able to give positive constructive feedback to colleagues. For example, one of us has led the staff members of the most successful offsite forum for the past four years. We wish to bring this experience to General Lounge in order for the board to flourish.

Communication skills: We are both adept writers – more so than the majority of forum users from any of the offsite forums. We are also skilled at reading into situations and looking beyond the text posted by people, and respond to these with empathy and friendship when needed. These skills have been further supplemented by a collective RuneScape play-time of over 17 years. Further, we have been avid users of the RuneScape Official Forums – garnering many friends and fans due to our friendly nature.

Dedication: With a combined post count of 5207 and nearly daily activity despite the current state of the forum, we have clearly demonstrated ourselves to be the most passionate and committed individuals on General Lounge.

Critical thinking & analysis: Arguably our best tools, we are curious and always eager to learn. Paying attention to detail in order to analyse situations comes naturally to us. We conduct further research in order to reach a better conclusion.
